Special Cable to The Tribune

BOULOGNE, France, June 21.—Mustapha Kemal has been through to the Dardanelles, and we are compelled to take immediate military measures.

In these words Premier Lloyd George announced to The Tribune correspondent to-night the momentous decision reached by the Boulogne conference of Allied leaders to make war upon the Turkish Nationalists.

Within a few days Greek troops will be marching against the Turks in continuation of the age-long struggle between these two peoples. Although the entire military program of the Allies was but called upon in the struggle against the Turkish outlaws, these first to bear the brunt of the fighting will be the Greeks.

Greeks Volunteer to Lead

The Hellenes, through their premier, Venizelos, who attended the conference sessions here today, volunteered to lead in the new war. Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, British chief of staff, and drawing up a plan of military operations which were given over by the conference.

Lloyd George and Mitherrand returned to their hotel to-night from the Boulogne conference. The latter, where the sessions are being held, with grave faces, in keeping with the decisions just taken.

Lloyd George explained that the decision to make war on Turkey was a necessary complete change in the program of the Boulogne conference. It is understood that both the French policy of concession to the Turks and the British program of conciliation have been definitely scrapped. Their place will be taken by a purely military program.

Although Greece lacks money and the Greek army is a large army, who are anxious to strike another blow against an hereditary enemy. It is expected that her national enthusiasm will be a powerful factor in the struggle against the rising tide of Nationalism in Turkey.

Greek Army Held Adequate

In his conversations with the Allied leaders Venizelos contended that Greece alone was able to defeat the Turks. He proposed, with 90,000 well trained and fully equipped troops, to march into the Balkans, to the region of Smyrna, then effect a rapid march into the interior to cut the railway at Ankara-Karaiskari.

At the junction at which the railway from Smyrna joins the main Berlin-Bagdad line that runs from Adana through Konya to Ismid.

The railway, which is the life line of communication and the disposition of Kemal, is cut it is hoped that the Nationalists would be forced to retreat into the interior. The move would relieve the pressure on the British in Mesopotamia, now operating on the south coast of the sea of Marmora, which Venizelos intended the Supreme Council he would lead with a division of Greek soldiers.

Each and Wilson Skeptical

Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Wilson are said to be skeptical of the ability of the Greeks to undertake the move. They are believed to be skeptical of the ability of the Greeks to undertake the move. They are believed to be skeptical of the ability of the Greeks to undertake the move.

Three Shot in Waterbury Riot; City Is Put Under Martial Law

Striker Slain, Two Police Wounded and Home Guards With Machine Guns Disperse Mob; Meetings Forbidden

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

WATERBURY, Conn., June 21.—Fighting between the local police and striking brass workers here flamed up into rioting again this noon, in the course of which a street battle was fought. A policeman and an armed guard of the Seville Manufacturing Company were wounded and a striker was killed. The mob was dispersed by the City Guard, which appeared with machine guns. The city to-night is under martial law.

The trouble began shortly before noon, when strikers marched to the Seville plant from a meeting they had been holding in the Auditorium. Singing derisive songs concerning the strike breakers said to be employed in the factory, they marched along peacefully enough until they were met by Sergeant Albert Wilton, who ordered them to disperse.

General bricks and cobblestones were the reply, and Sergeant Wilton had to open to the nearest telephone and notified headquarters that a riot was going on in Bridge Street. The strikers were amusing themselves by shouting at those at work in the plant when the police reserves, headed by Lieutenant Richard Leroy, came into view. Instantly the strikers left off jeering the "scabs" and began yelling at the men in blue. They also showed no disposition whatever to move when so ordered.

A minute later, above the uproar, came the sound of a shot, followed by others. Lieutenant Leroy pitched forward with a bullet through his chest. Lieutenant John J. Bergin, formerly of the Waterbury police force, an officer in the Seville company's armed guards, rode a horse into the struggling mass of strikers.

Suddenly he turned his mount, rode out of the press and, dismounting, walked slowly away toward St. Mary's hospital. He was dripping with blood from a bullet wound in his chest when he arrived there. His condition is critical.

A minute after Bergin was shot Patrolman Charles Harris and Fred Hickey came upon a striker who was deliberately emptying his pistol at the police. They both fired and both hit him. He died in St. Mary's hospital. When the City Guard, with bayonets fixed and reinforced by two machine guns mounted on motor trucks, bore down upon the crowd, the strikers fled and fled. It was not necessary for the guard to open fire.

Four companies of the Connecticut Guard have been called out by Governor Holcomb at the request of Mayor Samuel J. Benson, who is on duty here until the crisis has passed.

An order was issued by Police Chief Beach to-night forbidding the strikers to hold meetings.

Several More Persons Killed During Intense Rifle and Revolver Fire; Mobs Shoot at Troops

City Suspends Business

Thousands of Terrified Factory Girls Flee in Streets to Their Homes

LONDON, Ireland, June 21.—Civil war conditions prevail here and the civil authorities are powerless. Continuous rifle and revolver firing is being maintained with desperate intensity. The people fear to venture outdoors and business is virtually at a standstill. There are no mail deliveries.

In the renewed rioting to-day several persons were killed and two seriously wounded. The mobs openly fired on the troops. Whenever the soldiers dispersed the rioters in one part of the city, firing broke out in another.

All vehicles have disappeared from the streets and schools, shops and banks are closed. The quays being under fire, employees have been obliged to leave work there and return to their homes. Thousands of factory girls likewise, during the firing, were seen fleeing terrified along the streets.

Organized groups of men were observed kneeling and firing volleys at the word of command.

Dock Workers on Strike

Many houses were barricaded because of the rioting. The streets were deserted by all except those fighting or protecting vantage points. The dock workers struck, declaring they would not handle freight until peace had been restored.

The rioting was resumed at 2 o'clock this morning after the troops had been withdrawn. Following yesterday's tactics, Reports of additional casualties were received, but travel on the streets was so dangerous that it was impossible to obtain accurate details.

Among the men who died this evening was Harold McKay, who was cycling from the railway station. His pockets were rifled and his bicycle was stolen as he lay dead.

Marriage Is New Clew in Elwell Case

Neighbors of Slain Turfman Tell of Report He Was to Bring a Bride With Him From South

Woman in Gray May Solve Riddle

Milkman Tells of Seeing Three Men Leave House as Body Was Removed

A new trail was taken up in the search for the murderer of Joseph Browne Elwell from the testimony yesterday of Just Otten, who delivered milk at the victim's home.

It appears that it was common gossip among Elwell's neighbors in West Seventeenth Street that he was to arrive from the South with a bride; that this fact had appeared in newspapers and that when the prediction failed to materialize it occasioned further comment.

Was this expected bride? Was she left behind at the last moment, or did she really arrive and, finding other women in Elwell's train, fire the fatal shot? Or was she followed North by an irate lover in the neighborhood of the sportsman? These are the questions that the authorities are now working upon.

Woman Confirms Report

Otten says he learned of the bride from Mrs. John McCarthy, of 24 West Seventeenth Street, just across the street from the Elwell home. Mrs. McCarthy confirmed the conversation, and added that the fact that Elwell was to arrive with a new bride was the subject of talk in the neighborhood for many days before his return.

She herself, however, had not seen the bride. In this connection it was pointed out that the "short, stout, dark woman in gray" who lunched with Elwell three days before his death, had come upon him rather suddenly. Mrs. McCarthy, Elwell's housekeeper, has said that Elwell apparently had not expected her, as he had given Mrs. Larsen no previous notice of her coming.

She was in the house, says Mrs. Larsen, and she remembers she had to go out to the kitchen to get the lunch which he had purchased for the luncheon which he had a short time after the woman's arrival.

Was the woman in gray the expected bride? Is she the woman who raised a scene at Palm Beach when Elwell is said to have attempted to get rid of her by representing that her husband had become suspicious of her intimacy? The police are trying to find out.

Assisted District Attorney Dooley has said that the identity of the "woman in gray" is fixed. District Attorney Swann declared yesterday that he knows nothing about a woman in gray. When it was pointed out to him that Mrs. Larsen has repeatedly told the story of this woman's visit to Elwell's house the week of the murder, he said he would "look into it."

Other outstanding features of Otten's statement before the District Attorney yesterday were that he saw three men who looked like stevedores or truckmen, who had come to the door, coming out of the house while the turfman's body was being removed; also that he saw no signs of a struggle, and that the door was not open when he saw the body.

The police believed last night that Gabe was killed for his money and jewelry by a man who slept with him. Two men accompanied him from the restaurant, one of whom was seen this morning. One left him at Twelfth and Washington streets, the other, known as "Charlie," went to the new apartment with Gabe, who wanted to show him some new furniture.

Do Not Identify "Charlie"

That is what the restaurant waiters say. They do not identify "Charlie," however, Gabe welcomed him with unusual warmth when he entered the restaurant, between 8 and 9 o'clock, they declare, and asked about his parents, chatting with him until they departed together.

The authorities say Gabe's assailant had a fight on his hands when he attempted at a getaway had awakened the restaurant proprietor. The clothing over his breast was burned, and the police believe the man who pressed his revolver close to the body lodged in Gabe's body. No gun could be found.

Three Unionists Shot

From 2 to 5 o'clock this morning there was intermittent firing in many parts of the town. Between 5 and 7 o'clock three Unionists were shot, one of whom was thrown into the river. Thereupon a large body of Unionists charged down Carlisle Street, firing volleys after volleys toward the Sinn Féin stronghold in Bridge Street. The Sinn Féin returned the fire.

The two sides maneuvered between the streets, keeping up a fusillade most of the day. Troops with an armored car broke up the fighting temporarily at 10 o'clock. More troops are being sent to the scene of the rioting.

In a section of the waterfront, where the rioting has been most severe, barricades were erected by the troops. The soldiers will remain on duty during the night.

At one time the military were obliged to fire on a Nationalist crowd at William Street, but no casualties were reported.

Hoke Smith, Watson Also To Be Disciplined; McAdoo Appears Nominee

By Carter Field

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—The first victim of the Administration steam roller at the Democratic National Convention apparently is to be Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri. Mr. Reed will come demanding a seat in the convention as the regularly chosen representative of the 5th Missouri District.

Acting with a view to pleasing President Wilson, whom Mr. Reed has so bitterly attacked, the Missouri state convention ignored the wishes of the district delegates from Kansas City and adjourned, after referring the nomination back to the district delegates. His district has again demanded that Mr. Reed should represent it at San Francisco, and the case will come before the national committee on June 25.

Republicans to Run Campaign From Chicago

Harding and Leaders Still Wrestling With Personnel of the Executive Committee of Fifteen

Hays to Have Full Power

Nominee Aims to Rejuvenate the Party and Restore Constitutional Rule

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican Presidential candidate, spent to-day and to-night in conference with Harry Daugherty, his pre-convention campaign manager; Will H. Hays, chairman, and six other members of the party's national committee. Their work will not be finished before to-morrow.

The most important bit of new business discussed was the personnel of the executive committee of fifteen members that Chairman Hays was authorized at the last meeting of the national committee to appoint. The old executive committee had a membership of ten. The five additional members will be women. Two new executive committee officers have been elected for women. Mr. Hays will serve as chairman of the executive committee. The vice-chairman will be a woman, as will be the assistant secretary.

There was a vast amount of long-distance telephoning as efforts were made to get first-hand assurances of willingness to serve from persons whose names were proposed for membership on this committee, which really will be the board of directors of the campaign. The membership will not be confined to the national committee men, and there were indications that Harry Daugherty's pre-convention services on behalf of Senator Harding would be recognized by giving him a post on this body.

Hays Issues Statement

Senator Harding begged to be excused from his daily chat with newspaper men, but at 3 o'clock this afternoon Chairman Hays emerged from the suite and passed out the following statement to a horde of correspondents:

"Senator Harding possesses those vital qualities of mind and heart necessary to-day and in the time just ahead. His sense of duty, his sense of responsibility, his hold of fundamentals, his appreciation of the needs of to-day and of to-morrow, his love of the people from whom he came and of whom he is one, his faith in them, his magnificent grasp of large affairs, his great native ability and his training in statesmanship, his regard for the welfare of the country, his sense of the absolute importance of our own supreme nationalism, his proper appreciation of his country's position as a responsible factor in the world's future, but with the fullest realization of the absolute importance of our own supreme nationalism, his sterling Americanism, his righteous character and handness, and withal his thorough, unselfish, all quality in the most exceptional manner for the tremendous responsibilities which will soon be his. He will make a splendid candidate and a great President. The country will honor him, just as all who know him love and trust him, and the world will honor him."

Too, in Governor Coolidge we have a candidate for Vice-President who measures up to every requirement of a President.

Fear Attack on League

It is not the one vote out of more than 1000 which is disturbing Administration leaders in the Missouri Convention. It is the fear of Reed's attacks on the League of Nations and on the President. In addition, it is believed here, just as it was at the Missouri State Convention, that President Wilson
